Resume of Report of Library Committee--

On May 14, 1925, a special library committee was appointed by the president of the Alumni Association to investigate the needs of the College Library and to make recommendations. This committee consisted of B. L. Richards, '13, chairman, George Dewey Clyde, '21, and Joel E. Ricks, chairman of the library committee of the College. The report of this committee was accepted by the Executive Committee of the Association on June 5, 1925 and, later the same day, it was accepted by the association as a whole at the annual business meeting.

The editors of the Alumni Quarterly have thought it wise to print a resume of the report rather than to reproduce the entire document. Following is this resume:

1. Fifty thousand dollars is necessary for accessions to equip the library fully.

2. Reduced revenue for the Institution has made it impossible to appropriate sufficient funds to the library to keep it up to the standard which should be maintained.

3. Periodicals in the library have increased from 87 in 1910 to 136 in 1925. However, in many cases, sets of periodicals are not complete.

4. More adequate clerical help would make it possible to render more complete service in the library.

5. The present floor space of the library is inadequate.

RECOMMENDATIONS

"In view of the incompleteness of the data as now assembled it is deemed inadvisable to make specific recommendations either as to the amount of funds desired or as to methods of collecting same. It is recommended, however, first, that the urgent need of additional library facilities be officially recognized by the Alumni Association; and second, that a permanent committee be appointed by the Association to make a detailed study of the library problem and to work out a plan whereby the Alumni Association can make a worthy contribution to its Alma Mater at the proper time and under the proper conditions."

Faculty Changes For 1926-27 Announced

The budget for the 1926-27 school year at the Utah Agricultural College, as presented to the Board of Trustees by President Elmer G. Peterson, was accepted at the annual budget meeting of the board held in Salt Lake City on April 9th.

The outstanding faculty changes made at the meeting included the appointment of Kenneth C. Ikeler, professor of animal husbandry at the College, to be dean of the school of agriculture and the appointment of W. E. Carroll, professor of swine husbandry at the Iowa State College and expert in nutrition to be specialist in nutrition.

Professor Ikeler came to the College a year ago from Towanda, Pennsylvania, where he was manager of a large commercial live stock firm. He was formerly professor of animal husbandry in charge of livestock management at the Iowa State College. In the opinion of Dean Charles F. Curtiss of the School of Agriculture of the Iowa State College, Professor Ikeler is one of the most capable men that institution has ever had on its teaching staff. Since coming to Utah he has shown a capable grasp of livestock problems in the West.

Professor W. E. Carroll was head of the animal husbandry department at the Utah Agricultural College from 1914 to 1924 when he resigned to accept a professorship at the Iowa State College. His return to Utah will be warmly acclaimed by livestock men of this section.

Other additions to the faculty for next year will be Johanna Moen, professor of Textiles in the School of Home Economics who returns from a year spent at Columbia University in graduate study, C. E. McClellan of the department of education who returns after a year of graduate work at Stanford. W. P. Thomas, formerly county agent in Weber county who returns from a year at Cornell where he has been studying marketing to do experimental work under the Purnell Act, and Chester Meyers, who comes from Weber College to accept an instructorship in public speaking, W. H. Warner, who has been assistant in poultry, was appointed extension specialist in poultry.

Leaves of absence were granted to D. E. Robinson, professor of marketing, to study at Columbia University, R. J. Becraft, assistant professor of range management, to study at Chicago University and Christine B. Clayton, assistant professor of foods and dietetics, for a year of graduate study.

The Board of Trustees approved the construction of a home economics cottage to be used for laboratory work in courses in household administration. The furniture and equipment for the cottage will be paid for from funds to be raised by subscription.

Athletic Awards Made at College.

The Student Body of the Utah Agricultural College gave recognition to its athletes in all branches of sport on January 27. Athletic awards in the form of blue sweaters with the official block "A" for football; sweaters and blankets for first and second year track with the same letter; sweaters of white with the official block "A" in blue for basketball; and the regular blue sweaters and blankets with the white insignia for swimming, tennis and wrestling, were presented to fifty seven male students who successfully competed in the various branches.

Previous to the presenting of the awards, President E. G. Peterson of the College commented, briefly, on the sportsmanship displayed on the athletic field, stating that nothing was more characteristic of the ideals of the Institution than the gentlemanly qualities of its athletes. Coach E. L. Romney; Reed Bailey, former student body president; Willard Knowles, another former student body president; and Professor R. B. West, chairman of the athletic body presented the awards.

The following awards were made: Football: C. Leddingham, F. Thomas, E. Howe, L. Nuffer, E. Foxley, A. Martindale, W. Hawley, W. Geddes, A. Jeffs, R. Gibbons, N. Sanders, H. Linford, M. Dr. Watters Makes Gift to College.

Dr. L. L. Watters, a schoolmate of Dr. Weston Vernon of this city, donated $250 to the College last November to be used for starting a loan fund, in memory of his father, Ichel Watters. Dr. Watters and Mr. Vernon were school mates at the University of Utah, and Dr. Watters has since received his Ph. D. at Columbia. He has lived in New York for the past 25 years and is president of the Watters Laboratories, manufacturing hospital supplies.

Those who know him best are impressed with his scholarly attitude. His tastes are varied. His major in school was chemistry, but he is deeply interested in music, the drama and literature, as well as science in general. And what is perhaps more interesting to most westerners is the fact that he is writing a book on Western History. Dr. Watters was born in Utah and visits his native state every year.

ALPHA SIGMA NU ELECTS MEMBERS.

Twelve of the junior class of the Utah Agricultural have been elected to Alpha Sigma Nu, senior honorary society. The fraternity exists for the express purpose of awarding honor to those students who, in their first three years, have ranked highest in school activities, scholarship, and who get the unanimous vote on personality of the existing chapter.

Those elected were: Lester Pocock, Stanley Christensen, Golden Wright, Harold Peterson, Frank Christensen, Newel Sanders, Bessie Austin, Veda Mason, Leah Mourtitzen, Loretta Clayton, Erma Worley and Bertha Stoker.

Auerbach Collection In History Started.

Mr. Herbert S. Auerbach of Salt Lake City, has presented a five hundred dollar gift to the College which will be used as a nucleus for a library of Western history.

Mr. Auerbach presented the money for the College to use as it saw fit and was well pleased with the choice made by the board of trustees. A special section of the library will be reserved for books of western material and with the Auerbach gift as a nucleus it should grow into one of the best Western history libraries in the country. The library will be added to from time to time whenever possible and advisable. Mr. Auerbach's books will contain a bookplate with the following inscription: "Herbert S. Auerbach Collection in History."

WASHINGTON CHAPTER ORGANIZED.

The alumni of the Utah Agricultural College now residing in Washington, D. C. have just organized a local chapter of the U. A. C. Alumni association with E. B. Brossard, '11, member of the United States Tariff commission, as president.

The other officers of the new local are Rita Hulme, '25, social secretary to William M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture and himself a member of the class of 1904, vice-president, and Moses Rich, '26, a student in George Washington University, secretary-treasurer. The organization took place at a meeting held in Washington during the convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association.

Speakers of the program were John T. Caine III, '03, and D. E. Robinson, '11. About thirty members of the U. A. C., Alumni association were present.

Second Annual Founders' Day is Success.

The second annual Founders' Day to be held by the Utah Agricultural College was held Monday, March 8th.

The day's program began at 11 o'clock with a special assembly at which were present a great many old time students of the Institution. Special guests of the day included C. F. Olson, of Hyrum, a member of the territorial legislature which established the college and also an early member of the Board of Trustees of the Institution; Newell W. Kimball, the only surviving member of the committee which selected the site for the College; John T. Caine, Sr., first secretary of the Board of Trustees, a member of the first faculty and an alumnus of the Institution; and Charles Batt, who has been associated with the Institution since its opening. The assembly was under the direction of P. V. Cardon, a member of the staff of the Utah Experiment station and a graduate with the class of 1909, who was head of a central committee on arrangements for the day.

A special telegram from Dr. J. W. Sanborn, first president of the College was read by Chairman Cardon following which President Elmer G. Peterson delivered an address. The chief needs facing the Institution at the present time were briefly outlined by President Peterson. These include a new building to give a fire-proof home to the College library and to provide a new assembly hall; dormitory buildings for men and women; a higher scale of remuneration for the college faculty and an increase in funds available for books for the college library. President Peterson declared the most valuable asset of the College to be the spirit of democracy which characterizes student body and faculty and urged that it always be the aim of the students to keep this democratic spirit.

The honorable Frederick P. Champ represented the Board of Trustees at the meeting. Reading from the act that created the Utah Agricultural College, Mr. Champ pointed out that the field of the Institution was not simply to train students in the technic of farming and mechanic arts but that its field is to give the broadest possible preparation for an enlightened rural civilization. At the present time, according to Mr. Champ, the Utah Agricultural College in proportion to the population of the state stands third in size in total enrollment and third in size in agricultural enrollment, among the agricultural colleges of the nation.

Professor John T. Caine, Sr., representing the Alumni Association traced in a brief address the early history of the Institution and then called attention to the fact that the great success attained by former graduates of the College has set a high mark of excellence for members of the present student body to equal.

The concluding address of the assembly was made by B. Roland Davis, president of the student body who expressed the deep appreciation the students felt at having so many members of the Alumni Association and old time friends of the Institution return for a brief visit to the College.

Special music was furnished by the College orchestra, under the direction of Director Christiansen, the College quartet which sang Heidelberg and the White and Blue, two old time college songs and Anton Lunt who sang Ye Men of the U. A. C., a song composed by Professor Uppom, then head of the English Department at the U. A. C. now president of the University of Idaho. The invocation was pronounced by C. F. Olson, of Hyrum and the benediction by the Reverend Harris Pillsbury.

Following the assembly a free lunch was served in the halls of the main Building after which a vaudeville was put on in the College chapel. After the vaudeville an athletic carnival was held in the Smart gymnasium which was followed by a matinee dance. The production of the "Show-Off" at the Capitol theatre concluded the program of the day.

Scenic and Educational Advantages of Utah Announced

The scenic attractions and summer educational advantages of Utah were well displayed at the convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association which recently closed at Washington, D. C.

An important part of the convention was the Exhibits Hall, where displays of interest to school people were shown. One of the most attractive displays in the Exhibits Hall was one given over to Utah and the advantages she offers the teacher for summer study. Two large panels on the walls of the exhibit booth told the story in graphic form. On one of these panels was displayed a large map of western America, with Utah at its center. Arranged in proper position on this map were large pictures of Salt Lake City, the new Salt Air, Ogden Canyon, Logan Canyon, Bryce Canyon, Cedar Breaks, Zion Canyon, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, Kaibab Forest, Yellowstone Park, and the campus of the Utah Agricultural College, at Logan, which was designated as the home of the National Summer School. The second panel showed a map of the United States with photographs of the members of the visiting faculty of the National Summer School placed on the map to indicate the educational institutions from which they come. The visiting faculty members pictured included the following: Lewis M. Terman, professor of psychology, Stanford University; E. V. McCollum, professor of bio-chemistry, Johns Hopkins University; E. A. Ross, professor of sociology, University of Wisconsin; A. C. McLaughlin, professor of history, University of Chicago; Shailer Mathews, dean of the Divinity School, University of Chicago; J. H. McCurdy, in charge, work in physical education, International Y. M. C. A. College at Springfield, Massachusetts, and editor of The Physical Education Review; J. E. Needham, professor of biology, Cornell University; Edward Howard Griggs, author and lecturer of New York; E. A. Bryan, president of Ohio University; Charles F. Smith, professor of scouting, Columbia University; John A. Widtsoe, formerly president of the Utah Agricultural College and of the University of Utah; E. Laurence Palmer, professor of rural education and nature study, Cornell University; Mrs. E. Laurence Palmer, editor of the Cornell Rural Leaflets; R. A. Millikan, director Norman Brodige Laboratory of Physics and chairman of the Administrative Council, California Institute of Technology; and Mary Wood Hinman, director of the Hinman School of Dancing and Pageantry of Chicago. The panel also announced that other illustrious educators were being secured, including a leading authority in the field of elementary education.

Thousands of visiting school people saw the Utah exhibit. These can be roughly divided into two classes: One class had already heard of Utah, her wonderful scenic attractions and of her National Summer School. These people were deeply interested in the display. Those in the second group were frankly skeptical that so eminent a group of educators could be assembled on a Utah campus for a summer school as the Utah Agricultural College announced. A survey of the success of the first two sessions of the National Summer School convinced these school people of the opportunities in Logan for summer study. Several hundred visitors asked that literature be sent them concerning Utah, her scenic attractions and the National Summer School.

The Utah Agricultural College chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary debating fraternity, recently held initiation for the following students, all of whom are active in debating this year: Norma Hansen, Lucille Owen, Gwen Roueche, Leland Skanchy, Golden Wright. Stanley Christensen and Cecil Kenner, Miss Hansen, Miss Owen and Miss Roeuche are the first women to be initiated into the local chapter. Their initiation follows a recent change in the constitution of the fraternity making women eligible for membership.

What The Grads Are Doing

"Experiments in Rice Culture at the Briggs Station in California" written by Jenkin W. Jones, '12, is the title of a bulletin just published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Karl Young, '24, a member of the faculty of the Logan High School and a post graduate student at the College, has been named Rhodes Scholar from Utah. The award was made upon the basis of scholarship, leadership, interest in outdoor sports, literary attainments and qualities of manhood. Mr. Young was selected from among nine candidates for the honor. Following graduation from the U. A. C. in 1924 he spent a year at Harvard University specializing in English.

Professor George Stewart, '13, head of the Department of Agronomy at the College, was in charge of the Utah State exhibit of alfalfa seed and corn at the International Hay and Grain Show held at Chicago last December. The Utah exhibit was one of the outstanding displays of the show. Utah grown alfalfa seed won the first five prizes in the alfalfa seed competition and a total of thirteen out of a possible fifteen places. Utah corn took first, second, fourth and fifth places.

Winnifred B. Smith, '19, instructor in home economics at the College from 1920-23 was married last November to Leroy B. Holton. The newly married couple are making their home in New Orleans.

I. J. Jensen, '18 of the agronomy department at Montana State College, has the unparalleled distinction of coaching three international champion grain judging teams. His team won first place for the third consecutive time at the Pacific International Live Stock Exposition held at Portland.

THE SCRIBBLERS' CLUB ORGANIZED

The Scribblers' Club, a new organization on the Campus, has just published "The Scribble", a magazine whose purpose is "to encourage and advance the art of writing and provide means of expression for literary talent" at the College. The contributors to the first issue of the magazine are Mildred Overstreet, Alida Clayton, Norman Christensen, E. Virgil Norton, Alberta Jensen, W. R. Thornley, Marriner D. Morrell, and Margot Spande.

E D I T O R I A L

Due to overwork, laziness, or what you will on the part of the editor this issue of the Alumni Quarterly is late. We hope the information it contains will be interesting, nevertheless. The next issue will be out early in May with a complete account of plans for commencement. We can give you an idea of what is coming now. The spring quarter will end on Friday, June 14. That evening the annual alumni business meeting and social will be held. On the morning of Saturday, June 5, the commencement address will be delivered by Congressman Leatherwood. The Alumni banquet and ball will be held Saturday evening. Commencement will come to an end on Sunday with the baccalaureate sermon to be delivered by the Honorable Nephi L. Morris.

If there is any time during the whole year when the loyal Alumnus wants to get back to his Alma Mater it is at commencement time. If there is any time when he ought to get back, it is also commencement time. Follow your inclinations this spring and participate in the graduation programs. You will be surprised to see how the school is growing.

Campus Happenings.

Another conference championship was won by the Utah Agricultural College when the Aggie team, winners of the Western Division, defeated the Greely Teachers, winners of the Eastern Division in three straight games.

The teachers came to Logan the favorites to win. With a perfect five man defense, that even the wonderful scoring machine of the Aggies was not supposed to be able to break through, they were said to combine enough scoring ability to win three games. The Aggies, however, were not to be stopped by any style of defense and won all three games by good margins.

The summary for the basketball season shows consistent work on the part of the U. A. C. team.

The Aggies won thirteen games out of a total of eighteen played. Hawley, Aggie forward, was high point man both in the Western division and in the conference. He scored 184 points in conference games, including the championship series. The Aggies placed three men in the first six high point men in the Western Division. These were Hawley, with 148 points, Nielson, forward with 121 points and Worthington, center with 103 points.

At the close of the season, Newall Sanders, guard, who captained the team to a conference championship was re-elected to lead the team next year.

The U. A. C. Wrestling team won the state championship in wrestling and first place in the Western Division of the Rocky Mountain conference when it defeated teams from the B. Y. U., Montana State and the U. of U. in Provo, March 13.

The scores for the respective schools were:

Utah Agricultural College	14 ½ points
Brigham Young University	9 ½ points
Montana State College	3 points
University of Utah	None

The following men represented the U. A. C.: J. Pratt, Lloyd Nuffer, R. Walker, Frank Stevens, Ivan Packard, Willard Geddes and N. Peterson.

A brief review of the athletic record of the Utah Aggies so far this year should warm the hearts of all loyal Alumni. In football, the college finished second in the conference, being defeated only once and that by the conference champions, and finished first in the state. In basketball they took the championship of the Western Division and the conference championship. In wrestling they took the championship of the Western Division. No all-conference meet was held in this sport. In swimming they finished third in the Western Division. There remains tennis and track to be decided. In track the Aggies have twice in the last two years been state and conference champions. There is a good chance that they can repeat this spring.

The wide radius from which the U. A. C. draws its students was well illustrated by the football squad which represented the Institution last fall. Of the twenty seven men in the Aggie uniform, eight came from Logan, three from Brigham City, two from Kaysville, two from Murray and one from each of the following towns: Cedar City, Bountiful, Ogden, Richfield, Hyrum, Park City, Sandy, Richmond in Utah and Burley, Preston and Oakley in Idaho.

The debate program at the U. A. C. this year is one of the most ambitious ever arranged by the Debating Council. Seven debates have already been held and three more are scheduled. The summary of the seven debates that have taken place is as follows:

Opponents	Aggie Debaters	Place	Winner

The petition of the Sigma Alpha fraternity to Sigma Chi has been granted and the oldest local on the college campus will go national this spring.

The news announcing the granting of the petition came Saturday, April 3, in the form of a congratulatory telegram from Alex A. Sharp, secretary to the executive committee of Sigma Chi.

The granting of the petition came as the culmination of several years of persistent work on the part of the active chapter of Sigma Alpha, ably aided by the Alumni organization.

The Sigma Alpha fraternity is the oldest Greek letter organization on the college campus. It was organized in 1904 with the following charter members: Orval W. Adams, Luther M. Howell, B F. Eliason, Robert Hillman, W. A. Jenson, F. R. Jensen, James E. Barrack, B. F. Riter, and Roy Rudolph.

The Sigma Chi fraternity is one of the oldest and strongest national organizations in the United States. It was organized June 28, 1855 and is one of the "Miami Triad" as the three fraternities originating at Miami University are frequently called.

Sigma Chi is the second national social fraternity to grant a chapter on the campus. The first was Pi Kappa Alpha which granted a chapter to Pi Zeta Pi last spring.
